Javascript

- single threaded
- garbage collected
- and JIT-compiled
- `==` and `!=` are not normal
  - ‣ they attempt to compare values across types, that is `(5 == "5") = true`
- `===` and `!==` are the equivalent of normal `==` and `!=`
- supports fall through